What We’ll Ask of You

Commit to a full term of service
After we hire and train a tutor for a school, we rely on that tutor for the whole term of service—no substitutes or replacements. Our service term runs from August-May each year.

Serve in a full-time capacity to achieve term’s hour requirements
All tutors are expected to serve 40 hours per week when school is in session. The majority of these hours are accrued during the typical school-day. The remaining balance of the hours would be served in before- or after-school programming and preparation activities for the tutoring sessions.

Each service term has a set hours goal that the tutor must meet by the end of their service term in order to successfully complete the program. For example, a tutor serving the full school year is expected to complete a minimum of 1,220 hours from August – May. Tutors starting later in the year may be offered a reduced term with proportionate benefits.

Serve daily in a school setting
Tutors implement the Reading Corps model with fidelity, which includes meeting with their students every day of the school week during (and sometimes beyond) normal school hours. Your schedule must be consistent throughout the year so that the student tutoring schedule is consistent.

Participate in professional training
Tutors accepted into the program attend all required training sessions. “What You’ll Gain” (below) explains how our training model sets us apart, and why we aren’t shy about making it a requirement. The initial training and orientation is multiple days and covers everything you will need to know in order to get started at your school. Additional required and optional trainings throughout the year will continue to build your skills.

Engage and cultivate the spirit of service in your community
Reading Corps tutors spend their year viewing their community through the lens of service. They seize opportunities to be involved with community-based service activities, such as getting involved on the Martin Luther King Jr. Day of Service. Occasional weekend or evening service may be necessary.

What You’ll Gain

Training, coaching, and experience in research-based literacy strategies
Our training is one of many things that make our program powerful. Well-respected literacy experts train our tutors in proven, research-based literacy strategies. Each tutor is also assigned an Internal Coach at their school to provide ongoing and individual support. This tiered approach provides the content knowledge and tools tutors need to be effective and confident in their ability to help children grow their literacy skills.

Professional skill-building & networks
We invest so much in our tutors because they are each given real responsibility in their school. For those tutors who are pursuing or continuing a career in education, the hands-on experience and literacy training offer an invaluable stepping stone. Tutors work closely with on-site staff who can offer insight and a “foot in the door” in the field. For tutors not pursuing an education career, being part of Reading Corps provides transferrable professional experience and skills, while adding the impressive AmeriCorps name to their résumés.
Financial Benefits

Living allowance
Tutors receive a living allowance, rather than an hourly wage or salary. Prior to taxes, the living allowance is up to $10,000 for the full school year term and is distributed twice per month. Applicants must carefully consider their financial situation to determine if they can afford the commitment to serve with Reading Corps.

Education Award
Tutors who successfully complete their term of service will receive an education award of up to $4,266.50 for the full 1,220 hour term. The education award can be used to pay back federal student loans, and/or to pay for tuition or other educational purposes. The award has a seven-year expiration period and can be used at any accredited post-secondary school. Please note that the Education Award is considered taxable income in the year that it is used.

Tutors who are 55 or older at the start of their service enjoy an additional benefit. They may choose to transfer their education award to a child, grandchild, or foster child within seven years. The award must be used by the transfer recipient within ten years of the tutor receiving it.

Transportation assistance
CYC reimburses tutors for service related travel outside of their normal home to school commute. Members without vehicles are provided with a transit pass.

Student loan forbearance
If a tutor is making payments to a federally-backed education loan, payments may be put into forbearance during the term of service. Upon successful completion of the program, the accrued interest will be paid by the National Service Trust.

Health insurance
Tutors are eligible to enroll in a health insurance plan through Corps Network and provided by Cigna. This plan may differ from a traditional major medical health plan. Applicants are encouraged to visit Corps Network and view the benefit summary to determine if the insurance provided by Reading Corps will meet their health needs during their term of service. The insurance does not cover dependents.

Childcare assistance
Tutors may qualify (based on income) to receive child care reimbursement assistance. If you are interested in this benefit, please contact us to learn more about this benefit before accepting a position.

Our Reading Corps tutors are highly effective. By now, you’ve read the position description. You’ve also studied the benefits and commitments to service on these two pages.
